HOPE BASKETEERS TO OPEN HOME STAY OF FOUR WEEKS

Albion Meets Our Teams
In Feature Games
Friday

FROSH TO PLAY

Opening a home stay of nearly a month, the Hope college basketball team meet Albion at Carnegie gym Friday evening in the feature attraction of January. The Methodists will be at full strength in the invasion as co-captain Jimmy Densmore, forward of well known ability, is again roving in a purple and gold uniform. Although the proteges of Coach Erwin are not making any startling gestures in defense of the conference basketball crown, they are classed as a very strong team.

Albion has had one of the greatest cards of pre-season games that she ever arranged, and as a result shows more ease and experience in the M.I.A.A. Victories have been scored over Battle Creek college, and also a pair of triumphs over Calvin college, well known rivals of this institution. Besides, very close games have been played with the University of Detroit and Detroit Tech. Albion met two large schools in Notre Dame and the University of Michigan, and although entirely baffled in both quests, the team has taken advantage of the opportunity to play in fast company.

An Albion game here always starts student interest humming. And why not? The Methodist school has the largest enrollment of any one in the M.I.A.A. and as a result, their teams are usually a bit better than the others. It has been a long while since a Hope team tumbled one from Albion, and Friday's game seems to offer that much desired chance.

With examinations completed, the entire student body will be free from cares by Friday evening. Carnegie gym will hold many features of the basketball season. The Freshman team plays the Albion Frosh in the preliminary. And remember, the varsity plays Hillsdale here next week Friday. Kazoo on the following one, and Olivet on the third consecutive week.

The team is in the best of condition. Two conference games have been lost, by very close margins, but these were played on foreign courts. The student support, if enacted in the right way, will spur on the team. It is easily possible that the varsity quintet can end this home stay on top of the M.I.A.A. with a win marked over Calvin as well.

Brrr! Can It Be A History Exam?

Professor Uses Snowbank
For Desk

It was ten forty-five and one of our popular professors was struggling back to Holland after an evening out-of-town. The snow was falling at a furious rate, and a brisk wind was driving it across the road leaving an imposing row of drifts in its trail. The engine of his car roared as he plunged ahead, stopped, backed up, and lurched through. Then finally there appeared before him a huge snow bank. Was he dreaming? Had those tales of the Siberian exiles which he had read just that afternoon dragged his mind along this snowy channel? Dauntless he quickened his engine and leapt across the few feet of open road and—stopped. Caught as he was, he could scarcely budge, and until three o'clock "in the morning" he remained on his icy throne—king of the barren and apparently unpopulated territory about him. But kings do work occasionally and so this professor whose ambition knows no limits proceeded to plan his semester exams. And so, if a cold chill runs down your back as you take your first glance at the questions, remember that they were written in an icy atmosphere—not very conducive perhaps to warm sentiments for idle students.

Van Vleck Gives Sleighting Party

Dorm Girls Are Guests of Fellows

Giddy-up! Whoa! Those horses surely knew where to stop—right in front of Voorhees Hall. Evidently Herb. Sneider told the drivers of those two sleighs that Van Vleck needed those very two on that particular Thursday night at 7:30.

Jumping in from all sides, the two sleighs were soon filled to overflowing with excited "children." Last of all, came Miss Fulmer, wrapped in swaddling clothes. Hardly a person recognized the chaperon in this fetching costume. The sleigh jingled merrily over the Waverly road and down 32nd St. back to the dorm, to the tune of many impromptu songs. After the hour and a half of riding, jumping and face-washing, all were glad to get back to the dorm. Hot dogs and coffee formed the "piece de resistance." After much eating and some singing, the galloping herd from Van Vleck and elsewhere thundered on.

Of course, we must add the spice, but wouldn't dream of telling a soul that a certain "Mike" threatened to neck the horses if excitement waned; nor would we mention the kick a certain "Ruth" got from sitting next to a certain "Camel." We are not one bit afraid to say, however, that "Olive" was a regular Harold Lloyd, laughs and all. All agreed that a swell time was had, and many predicted hot dogs for the day after tomorrow. Alas, how wise (and otherwise) we get.

COMMITTEE ACTIVE

You possibly may wonder who is keeping up (or scaring up) the pep by means of the black board in Van Raalte hall. The Homecoming committee who turned out the greatest piece of work in the school's history is sponsoring a basketball drive. Advertising of the games via signs, posters, and newspaper publicity is in its hands. We congratulate Lois De Wolfe and her pack for the good that has been done, and hope for more. Some stunt at the Albion game is listed this week.

Soph Girls Entertain At Afternoon Tea

Mrs. Durfee and the sophomore girls of Voorhees Hall entertained at 3 o'clock tea, Friday January 24th. Their guests were the sophomore girls who live outside of the dormitory.

Mrs. Durfee gave a very helpful talk concerning the choice of and the preparation for a vocation, advising the girls to remember to always put first things first in the educational as well as the spiritual field. In closing, she asked each girl on the campus to be present Tuesday evening January 28th to hear Miss Hines, a former Hope student, speak on the possibilities of church secretarial work.

The talk gave the girls an incentive to speak of their plans for the future and the remainder of the afternoon was spent in a discussion of the choosing of careers and vocations.

Refreshments were served at four o'clock.

So "Slim" decker is trying to get on the right side of Prof. Hinkamp? That clever and witty editorial on the thriftiness of the Y. M. and Y. W. penned by Slim, shows he sure is going about it in the right way. Very tactful n'est-ce-pas? Oh well, we live and learn so there's still hopes for you Slim.

The man at the bottom of most things is usually up a tree.

IF I WERE A FRESHMAN

If I were a freshman I wouldn't make it so evident that the name was particularly suitable to me; I wouldn't reveal so plainly to the sophomores that I was constantly on my guard against their outstanding wit and sarcasm. I wouldn't make my egoism disgustingly distasteful to them and the upper classmen but humorously pleasing.

If I were a freshman I wouldn't feel so proud and elated over the fact that my class was represented in a majority of the activities if I was not one of the few and—after all, it is only out of courtesy of the professors and upper classmen that all classes are equally represented.

If I were a freshman I wouldn't be so utterly disrespectful of the upper classmen, especially a senior—by asking him to contribute to a "Frosh" paper.

If I were a freshman I wouldn't take credit undue to me by priding myself on doing things I had been asked to do. I wouldn't retort to a correction or criticism with some supposedly all-knowing remark—but acquiesce with quiet intelligence and be the wiser for it!

Hope To Lose Group of Coeds

Population of Western States
On Increase For Two Weeks

Saturday Hope will lose twenty-five of her co-eds, and Illinois and Wisconsin will gain a fair increase in population. The girls have been preparing for their trip for weeks already, and at last shopping and borrowing expeditions have been completed and with the packing of their belongings and farewells, they will be off.

Two full weeks of concert work have been planned. South Holland will be entertained on Saturday night, and Cicero, Englewood and Roseland will enjoy Hope's talent on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday respectively. Thursday night the girls will appear in Milwaukee, and Friday morning they will sing from radio station WTMJ. Waupun will be their last stop in Wisconsin. After that concert they will travel south to Illinois, and Fenton, Dundee and German Valley will be entertained. Their final concert will be in Grand Rapids.

We wish the girls the best of luck on their trip.

Chapel Choir Adds To Early Service

Student Body Appreciates
Numbers and Wants
More of Them

On January 23rd the Chapel Choir under the leadership of Professor Snow favored the student body with a delightful and very well rendered sacred number. It is certainly with deep appreciation to Professor Snow and to the Choir that these few words of thanks are dedicated. The student body are very grateful for the time and enthusiasm that their fellow classmates have given toward making the Chapel Choir such outstanding features in our chapel exercises.

With the combined talents of our Glee Clubs and Chapel Choir no one could ever say that Hope College buried its talents. We are hoping that we will be favored with many more equally lovely songs by the Choir in the future. Their smiling faces and charming voices have been greatly appreciated and immeasurably enjoyed by both the faculty and the student body.

Lordahl and Brouwer Lead

"Y" Groups in Discussions

The meeting of the Y.W.C.A. held on January 21st was led by Marion Lordahl on the topic, "Adventures in Faith." Polly Hondelink favored the group with a trumpet solo accompanied by Annetta McGilvra. The singing was in charge of Suzanne Schoep who introduced several new hymns which the group sang very creditably under her guidance. Marion then gave us a very admirable talk on "Adventures in Faith," after which several of the girls gave interesting testimonies on the hardships and the ups and downs, but the ultimate happiness of leading a wholesome christian life. This delightful taste of christian fellowship adds something vital to our lives unnoticed as it may be.

The next meeting of the Y. W. will be lead by a speaker from Grand Rapids who will speak to the girls on church secretarial work a new field open to young women, so regardless of it being exam week we hope that her audience will be a large and interested one.

The girls of the Y. W. urge that more of their classmates come to the meetings in order to help make the organization stronger and more far-reaching in its influence. After all, if the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. organizations received more support and enthusiasm from the students of Hope College, it would not be subjected to unjust criticism.

There goes Roger looking like the "last rose of summer, left blooming alone." Ah, but there's a reason for "this down in the mouth, I've lost my last friend expression." Janet has a dateless campus lasting about a week which is rather hard on the kids.

NEW STUDIES LISTED ON COURSES OF MEN'S CLUB

Glee Club Renders Concert at Overisel

Itinerary of Singing Bevy
Leads West

Five cars, filled with Glee Club Girls, chugged away from the Girls Dormitory last Friday night, en route to Overisel where they were to render a concert.

This is the first concert the girls have given this year and it was a rather excited group that arrived almost three quarters of an hour ahead of time at the appointed place. There was quite a bit of fussing and fuming done in front of a mirror, provided for such things, in order to make the new caps cover the right spot. The girls not quite accustomed to them yet and are quite particular as to how they "sit."

The concert which lasted a little over an hour, consisted of sacred numbers sung by the group intermingled with a duet sung by Misses Gladys Huizinga and Jeanette Herman, a solo by Miss Susanne Schoep, and a piano solo by Misses Mildred De Pree and Edith McGilvra. Critics say that the concert was well rendered.

Before the girls left the ladies of the congregation served the group a very refreshing lunch of sandwiches, hot chocolate and cookies. The girls then bundled into the cars and sped home with everyone enthusiastic in anticipation of the trip they are to take, which begins this coming Saturday and lasts two weeks.

SOROSIS 100%

All the members of the Annual staff have been working hard to bring the school up to one hundred per cent in subscriptions for the MILESTONE.

The honor for being able to report her society, as first in the one hundred per cent drive goes to Betty Smith—who has worked very diligently and tactfully during the past few weeks to sell subscriptions to the Sorosis girls, who had not already invested. The investment is a good one and all feel that every student is doing his or her share in contributing toward the drive.

No Love Matches Amongst Frosh

An interesting and perhaps significant condition now exists in the Freshman Class. They seem unable to promote suitable matches amongst themselves.

There are many examples of this unparalleled condition. It was evident from the first that Mr. Harold de Windt had a propensity for upper class girls, while Bruce van Leeuwen followed him as a close second. Among the girls there are the noteworthy examples of mildred klow and alicia boter whose charms seem to have captivated the hearts of two upper-classmen. Two of the Freshman Shieks seem to be unable to get located, namely: James (Speedy) moran and irving (snowshoes) decker. These two redoubtable gentlemen boast of dates from each class (but not many of them.)

The two exceptions, which prove the rule are the cases of helen johnson and clark poling and of ruth weidner and herbert marshall. We point to the ever-growing bond of affection between these young people of the same class as an example for other Freshmen.

able to raise their score in the closing minutes of play. John Flikkema scored five times from the field, for the winners, while the scoring for the Independents was evenly divided.

In the second tilt the Emersonians defeated the Knickerbockers only after a 4 minute overtime period had been added. At the end of the game each team had counted (Continued on page 2)

Will Delve in Everything from Geography to Giving Concerts

LEAVE FRIDAY

Friday morning at ten o'clock the Glee Club men will remember Hope College long enough to say goodbye and then all thoughts of school will be forgotten as they take up a combined course in geography, bus-mechanics, sight-seeing and professional concert work. They expect to pay their tuition and all their expenses from their 'salaries.'

After weeks of practicing in preparation for the trip, they will finally be given Mrs. Fenton's last admonitions, and will climb into their bus carrying the true Hope spirit to Detroit and 'all points east.'

A very large bus will be needed to carry all their enthusiasm besides luggage for about twenty-five people. For this purpose a huge monster has been chartered from the Safe Way Lines, Inc. At present it is being overhauled for the trip and given a new coat of varnish. Its 150-horsepower motor will easily do seventy miles an hour; and it is possible, so the owners tell us, to idle it down to forty-five. For the comfort of the passengers it is equipped with reclining chairs and two full-length heaters. Then, in order to keep the boys quiet, a radio is being installed.

On this tour many places of interest will be visited. Among them are: Niagara Falls, the Statue of Liberty, Princeton University, New Brunswick Seminary, Grant Park, New York City and all its attractions, Philadelphia and its Universities, and last but by far not the least—Washington, D.C., and Arlington. About three days will be spent in the Capitol and as many points of interest as possible will be visited. All the make-up work will be worth the stay in Washington alone for several surprises are in store for the Club.

Professor Snow will accompany the boys and try to keep them from over-doing, in order that they may get down to business after their taste of a school on wheels. He, however, will not be able to join them until next week when he will meet them at Amsterdam, New York.

About twenty-five engagements have been arranged, beginning at Detroit, Rochester, Amsterdam, several in the Hudson River valley, six or seven in New York City and its suburbs, several in New Jersey, Philadelphia and the last in Washington, D.C., on February 23. A complete itinerary can be gotten from any member of the Club.

Cocky Frosh Finds Soph Speech Hard

De Windt Retires From Group
In Record Time

It was learned recently that Harold de Windt, sometime orator from Grand Rapids, could not make the grade in the Sophomore Public Speaking course. To the Sophomore reporters belongs the credit of bringing the surprising and interesting details to light. The Anchor retains exclusive right on the story.

When roll was called for the first time in Sophomore Public Speaking, de Windt responded to his name with his now familiar deep bass voice "nresent." With each class period it became increasingly evident to this aspiring orator that passing a Sophomore course without the foundation of the Freshman course is exceedingly difficult. de Windt was a fish—that is a fish out of water. The class sentiment was also against him and soon there remained only an ominous silence, instead of the deep bass voice when roll was called.

He had realized the improbability of passing the course and feared the jeers of the Sophomore classmates if he peremptorily dropped it or if he received the dreaded "F."

THE HOPE COLLEGE ANCHOR IS PUBLISHED WEEKLY THROUGHOUT THE SCHOOL YEAR BY A GROUP OF INTERESTED STUDENTS.
SUBSCRIPTION RATES $1.50 PER YEAR.
HOLLAND CITY NEWS, PRINTERS.

We deplore the tendencies of the present Freshman class as displayed in the Freshman Anchor. Perhaps, as they say, they do not lack in class spirit, but the class spirit this year seems to be one of egotism rather than of deference as is customary with first year students.

Perhaps it should have been suggested to them that this Anchor was to have been a newspaper and not a Freshman catalog. Even so, surely they can realize that startling news such as "Frosh Girls Stay at Various Places," and things of that sort are a bit uninteresting, say even dull, to people other than those whose names got into the paper. And, "Frosh Make Gigantic Pep-Meeting Bonfire," — we recall also that the Frosh failed to guard their Gigantic Pep-Meeting Bonfire, with the result that it was destroyed by hoodlums, and upper classmen had to go out and get a good one in its place.

Then consider the tremendous information imparted by the two headlining front-page articles — only four Freshmen in two Glee Clubs with a combined membership of fifty or more! The Frosh should be ashamed of themselves! (They might look up the number of Sophs going on the trips.)

Yes, we are cognizant of the fact that the Hope song has verses to it, but, since they are never sung, what are you going to do with your momentous discovery. We are very sorry, but we find nothing in your charming six page brochure that we did not already know. And you do need a proof-reader!

In conclusion, may we say that we find the Freshman Anchor a beautiful symbol of the Freshman class, — in form, appearance, and general first impression, it is up to standard, but in content and interior worth it is sadly lacking.

FUNNY OR FOOLISH?

At the recent home basket ball games, a group of men students have united their blatant voices to emit what, unfortunately, are not cheers for the team but jeers at other students. In several instances they amounted to camouflaged insults. Of course, the crowd laughed, what will a crowd not do? But we noticed that those who did the yelling laughed the loudest and longest. Such an activity may be fun for the participants, but it is bound to have pernicious influence. It is hardly believable that anyone is so desirous after publicity that he welcomes these embarrassing situations. The fact that the subject of the calls has a lady friend with him makes the matter only more disgraceful to those who subject the couple to mortification. Any student, who is loyal enough to come to a game and bring a friend, is deserving of respect. Razzing can easily influence a sensitive person to stay away from games, or at least, to come alone. Such childish demonstrations as we witnessed Friday night are out of place in college. Save your energy for the regular Hope yells, and act your age.

Whence comest thou?
Art thou weary and distressed?
What wouldst thou?
Is thy heart and mind oppressed?
Whither goest thou?
Is thy way marked broad and clear?
What seekest thou?
Is thy Guiding Helper near?
These very queries we daily face
And all our hopes lie in His Grace.
Challenge Ye then the world to meet.
Renew thy strength at the Master's feet.

"What Do You Think of the Freshman Anchor?"

"It took old Dr. Cook just one hour to convince the King of Denmark that he had discovered the North Pole, but it required two years for Lieutenant Peary to convince the Geographical Society of the same fact, and he was telling the truth. And when Bryan said 'Good-bye, good luck, God bless you' to Wilson, do you think he was telling the truth." In just one hour I was convinced that we had angels amongst us.

Donald MacClain Wade.
The Frosh editorials left much to be desired in the realm of journalism. Certainly the article, if we may call it such concerning the thriftiness of the "Y" associations was characteristic because of its pathetic inanity. There isn't anything on the campus that cannot be criticized, in fact, worthy criticisms, constructive as well as destructive are essentials to the best interests of society; but destructive criticisms alone, devoid of both logic and reason, will never bring about a reformation. This being the case, the Anchor subscribers have every reason to believe that the author of that ignominious article has either been educated above his intelligence, or has forgotten that noble saying: "It is better to be thought unreasonable, than to remove all doubt." We hope that in the future the Freshmen may come to realize the true merits of Hope and its worthy activities rather than glorify in her defects.

Fred Wyngarden.
H. K. Smith:
"From what I remember of the Class of 31's Freshman Anchor, a criterion par excellence, I think that this 'Anchor' was very good. I really don't however, see the need for all the extra expense of the paper when the other classes have hobbled along successfully with four pages. In constructive criticism, though, a number of features such as songs, cartoon (?) and extra news made up for any deficiencies in size."

Marion Alday:
"The Freshmen are to be commended for their serious attitude toward college work. They still are quite obviously in their freshman year in that the green shell of 'sell' and 'class' seems to cling somewhat as a new worn chick is sometimes seen sturdily braced on both feet and peeping vociferously, while his aspect as a forked monstrosity, to quote Carlyle, is made more ludicrous by the empty shell which still adorns his hinder parts. We are not, however, discouraged with that—the peeping at least denotes growing pains and a desire for nourishment."

Anne Koeman:
"The dark green on the front page was cleverly done. It shows that some members of the freshman class have artistic ability. It will be interesting to watch their progress. We ask the question, 'Why the old news?' The upper classmen hope that you will do better in the future and benefit by the motto, 'Live and Learn.'"

A Brunson:
"My first impression of the 'Frosh' Anchor was somewhat changed by a closer examination. The arrangement and general appearance was commendable, but the contents were not especially outstanding. A thorough course in the elements of English seems to be the greatest need of the budding journalists. Perhaps results would have been better if the guidance and encouragement of more mature minds had been enlisted."

Addisons

16 points, but Van Leuwen and H. Klaassen scored in the overtime session, thus giving the Emersonians the long end of a 20-16 score. Wyngarden and Scudder shone offensively for the losers, while Van Leuwen counted heavily for the winners.
The standings at the end of the first two weeks of competition show the Addisons in the lead, 4 team tie for second place and the Independents in the cellar.

Standings	W.	L.	Per
Addison	2	0	1.000
Fraters	1	1	.500
Knickerbockers	1	1	.500
Emersonians	1	1	.500
Cosmopolitans	1	1	.500
Independents	0	2	.000

HUMOR

If by any chance anyone has failed to read the Freshman Anchor. We offer it as the outstanding joke of the year.

Another joke is the whole Freshman Class.

Dr. Dimment: "Were you ever pinched for going too fast?"
James M.: "No, but I've been slapped."

alice boter — generally speaking is generally speaking.

Swimmers Attention!!

All of those wishing to try out for the Swimming Team will meet at the Gym this afternoon. Bring a pair of water wings and a bucket of water.

Helen: "Did you have the davenport dusted yesterday, mother?"
Mrs. Johnson: "No — why?"
H. J.: "Well, Clark and I sat on it last night and Clark got dust on his trousers."

Superior Kultur

Frosh: "Excuse me, professor, I didn't understand the question."
Soph: Give me that question again.
Junior: "I didn't get you?"
Senior: "Hhh?"

Some people are wondering if Prof. Snow wouldn't like to insert, in his selection of Russian songs for his Chapel Choir, a few Bolshevik songs.

A Freshman saw a sign on a guide post out in the country: "This will take you to Holland." He sat on the sign for two hours and then said: "I wonder when she's going to start."

Reports have it that a certain skinny frosh (I. D.) wears shoes, size twelve; We firmly believe in the old proverb that the size of the hoof denotes the size of the roof.

Mrs. Durfee: "I am surprised that you should ask for more pie when you already have plenty on your plate."

Insolent Frosh: "Why, that ain't pie, Mrs. Durfee, that's crust. What I want is pie."

Dormitory Coasting

Nice,
Ice;
Hill,
Bill;
Sled,
Dead!

To the German Students

Ich weiss nicht was soll is bedentend
Dasz ich so trousig bin;
Ich habe mein "ponie" vergesseu.
Und muss rely on my Linn,
Der Prof. ist kuhl und sie chuckelt
Und whig lacht sie in Glee
Sie sagt daas sie will men flunken,
Ach Himmel. Kaun das sein me?
Rudimentals!

I see a bird.
I see a cat.
Q. Does John see the bird?
Q. Does John see the cat?
A. No, John does not see the cat or the bird.
Q. Why does not John see the cat and bird?
A. John has a woman on his mind.

The best policy is to eat slowly at the Dormitory for they never hand out more than one piece of pie.

Frosh Constituent: "How do you do, Doctor. Can't you get me a recommendation to the University of Michigan?"

Dr. Dimment: "I'm sorry son. The fact is, you look too seedy."

Frosh: "Ah! then how about an Agricultural College?"

We might put in a joke about ethel leetsma or john somsen but they are good enough jokes without commenting on them.

Then again there is the freshman who thought that it was the Anchor of Hope which kept our athletic teams from winning more contests.

Warning to Frosh!

"You are a fine little fellow," said a Prof. to a young freshman as he patted the boy on the head. After chatting a little while (as all Prof's do with freshmen) he asked in parting, "Well, I suppose you are going to grow up and be a senior in College?" "That's what maw's afraid of," innocently replied the Frosh.

Finish. I forgot something.
Berdean Willing's sister is visiting us this week-end. We hope she likes our college life provided she hasn't heard the usual argument between the dishwashers and the waitresses.

Campus Gossip

Say, of all the two-footed, protoplasmic types of mammals that ever walked the earth, this freshman class is the limit!! Have you noticed in their edition of the Anchor, such egotistical expressions as:

"The Freshmen took it upon themselves to show upper-classmen" this, and "the Freshmen were of course promoters of this advance." Also "our clever float" and "for the first time in the history of Hope college, the Freshmen" did this, and "since the upper-classmen do not know this, the Freshmen are informing them," and many more such instructive criticisms. Apple-sauce!!

The way the freshmen go around this campus "taking things upon themselves" is just too bad. If one didn't know better, one would think the frosh were sent to Hope College to instruct other people as to what they should do. Calm down, freshmen, you have lots to learn. We hope you'll know better when you get to be Sophs.

Have you seen the bright light in the eyes and rosy cheeks of "Hank" Lamet? No wonder, she's got a chance to rest up and get plenty of beauty sleep. That's something all of us don't manage to get. But "Hank" is a privileged character; she received a light campus and so gets lots of sleep from 9 P. M. on.

Friendly Bootlegger — "Looks like rain!"
Joe College—"Yes, but it tastes faintly like yeast."

"Prisoner, the Jury finds you guilty."

Hap Friesema—"That's all right, judge, I know you're too intelligent to be influenced by what they say."

Mrs. Durfee—"Don't bring any more of that horrid milk. It is positively blue."

Milkman—"It ain't our fault, lady, it's these long dreary nights as makes our cows depressed."

Michigan "B" May Play Hope

University Offers Grid Date
To Coach Schouten

SCHEDS ANNOUNCED

The 1930 gridders of Hope college may meet the B team of the University of Michigan next fall, if the dates can be arranged. Athletic Director Jack Schouten received a letter from the office of the Board in Control of Athletics offering a home and home series agreement. It was sent by Franklin C. Cappon, assistant director under Yost, and one of the greatest athletes Holland and the U. of M. has ever known.

Mr. Jack Schouten,
Hope College.

Dear Jack:

I am wondering if you would be interested in meeting our B team in football. We have November 15 open and would like to enter into a two year home and home agreement with you, the first game to be played at Holland on Nov. 15, 1930, and the second game to be played at Ann Arbor in 1931. Will you kindly advise me of your reaction in this matter at your earliest convenience?

With best wishes, I am,

Yours truly,

F. C. "Cap" Cappon,
Ass't Director.

Wingarden Makes Good on Court

Was Not Flash In Pan As Critics Expected

Having proven his prowess in several realms of sports such as football, wrestling and boxing, Fred Wingarden has successfully made his debut on the court.

After proving his mettle in the Knickerbocker-Freshman fray, Fred looked around for more worlds to conquer. An opportunity was not slow in affording itself as Fred was put in to strut his stuff in the Knickerbocker-Emersonian tilt.

Fred dog-trotted out on the court, determination written upon his stern countenance. A shout went up from the few onlookers, who, having seen his initial performance, realized that soon things would happen. They were not disappointed as Freddy soon got his hands on the ball and began rushing for his basket. In the excitement, however, the ball got a considerable distance ahead of our redoubtable hero, notwithstanding his terrible speed. Fred, knitting his brows, resolved to over take the ball at any cost. Redoubling his speed, he overtook the ball, grasped it in his powerful hands, took four prodigious steps, then a huge jump, to make the only touchdown of the entire game.

Nor was this all. Not content with his astounding feat in the first half, Fred came back with his old form, though in another guise, in the second half. This time he tried a new expedient, that of remaining under his basket until the ball was passed to him. With a patience that would have been a credit to Job Fred waited. The clever ruse worked and Fred soon had two more points to his credit.

Such was Fred's preoccupation during the rest of the game that after it was all over he blandly inquired, "Was that an overtime game?"

"DOC" HOOVER REVIEWS

At last the coeds of Hope have their chance at basketball as well as the boys. This is quite an advancement in the college activities. For a long time the girls have had to be satisfied with seeing the boys play, but now, thanks to the work of some of the more energetic ones, they can take part in the game themselves. There are those who do not think it is right for the girls to play basketball or care to see them play, but, it is no more than right that they should have the privilege to take part in the game, too.

Of course the girls' game is slower than the boys, but we can't expect them to run up and down the floor like those who have had the opportunity to put in a great deal of practice. However, give them the time and maybe some day they will be playing under boys' rules at Hope. Many of them would like to now.

At present the different sorority teams seem to be coming along in fine shape. No prediction can be given now as to which team looks the best. They all have chances for improvements and with a little more practice they should have some strong teams. So come on fellows, back the girls in their new enterprise as they like the game as well as you.

SPORT BRIEFS

Alma Leads Conference

Alma took undisputed hold upon the top rung of the M. I. A. A. ladder at their own gym by winning a 27-24 battle from Kazoo. Both of these teams had won their two conference starts up to that game. Kazoo took the lead for a short while in the opening minutes of play, but were forced to take the back seat as soon as the Alma attack began to function. Alma was ahead 11-8 at the half and at one time had a 21-11 margin on the celery pluckers. Kazoo rallied in the closing minutes. Simmons with 15 points led the Alma attack from his center position, while Murdock shone for Kazoo.

Ah! Calvin Wins a Game

Our rivals, Calvin college of Grand Rapids, finally won their first basketball game of the season. After being defeated by St. Marys on Thursday evening, 55-31, at Pontiac, the Knights earned a 36-24 decision over General Motors Tech of Flint on Friday. The Dolfin brothers shone in the victory. W. Dolfin, forward, scored eight times from the field while J. Dolfin, center, counted five goals.

Van Haitsma Joins Varsity

With the close of the semester, another sophomore joins the varsity ranks. Titus Van Haitsma, flashy forward hailing from Zeeland will rejoin the squad this week. Titus was a star with the freshman team last year, the same club that gave Dalman and Spoelstra to the varsity. Les Vander Werf, who has been a member of the first squad during this semester, will leave on the men's glee club trip and therefore has played his last game.

Varsity Wins Tilt From "Whoozits"

Score 76-10 is Greatest in History

Due to a postponement by Albion, the varsity basketball team did not invade the Methodists court Friday evening, but instead stayed home to hand the Whoozits, an independent team from Grand Rapids, a 76-10 licking. Forced to get a conditioning battle for Michigan State, Coach Schouten picked the furniture city club as they had lost only one game in league play all year. A goodly group of students turned out to cheer on the team, and incidentally got warmed up for the next four Fridays.

The regular five started the game and worked very well despite the flaccidity of the visitors and piled up a large score. Then the seconds took up the thread and added their bit. Playing on the part of both squads was very good, the teamwork of Van Lente, Cook, Spoelstra, Becker, and Dalman, being flashy. Coach Schouten had his men work the ball into close range before shooting.

Waddy Spoelstra and Clare Becker led the scoring with 21 and 17 points respectively. Dalman's passing was polished and he fed the other two offensive cogs. Van Lente and Cook smothered any offensive gestures of the visitors. Brute Japinga and Herm Kruisenga worked best for the "regulars." The Fraters nearly upset the Freshman team in the preliminary. Headed by Paul (All State) Nettinga, Mike Arendshorst, and Titus Van Haitsma, the fraternity club gave the yearlings a great battle with the final score being 37-26. Jim Tysse headed the winning attack with eighteen points, with Gerit Wiegerink and Joe Harms also playing well.

GREAT STATESMAN FROM BRITISH PARLIAMENT TO SPEAK IN HOLLAND

The New York Sun, December 21, 1929, has the following to say about "David Lloyd George, the Man and Statesman," a new biography in two volumes, by Sir J. Hugh Edwards, who is to lecture at Carnegie Hall, Hope College, on January 30th:

"As I read this life of Lloyd George, I am struck by its similarity to that of Abraham Lincoln, whom he admires so much and quotes so often," writes James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, in his introduction to these volumes. "Both men were born and brought up in the pinch of poverty. Neither had much schooling. Both had mothers who continually held up to them the ambition to be of service in life. Both worked from earliest youth to prepare for the law. Both entered the political arena at an early stage.

"Finally each rose to the highest office in the power of his fellowmen to bestow. And both were bitterly criticised as being unprincipled and shifty throughout their lives. One of these men died at the zenith of his power. The other is still alive, still attacked, still hated, still revered."

"As Mr. Edwards has traced this meteoric career, biography is made to read like romance. It is drama, rather, the narrative of this ward of a Welsh cobbler, who learned to read by studying the Bible and rose to fill the most exalted office that his country had to give."

"The Hon. Hugh Edwards is eminently fitted to be the biographer of David Lloyd George. I have known Mr. Edwards for many years as a delightful personality and a gifted orator. His many years of experience in Parliament have given him invaluable knowledge of the background of the man whose life he here portrays, and he has handled his material like a master biographer."

"As one who had the good fortune to be an eye witness to some of this important history in the very making, it seems as if I were living again these scenes as I read Mr. Edwards' pages. Their vivid accuracy lends the proof of verity to the entire work, which glows from end to end with the fire of a biographer who has a justifiable love for his subject and has the power to communicate that respect to all his readers."

Sir Hugh will lecture on "Where Is the World Today, and Whither Are We Drifting?"

Tickets are procurable at Meyer's music store at 50 cents, 75 cents and $1.00.
